Commonwealth Alienist Pronounces Foltz Sane; Act Emotional, Normal

Simply Wrought-Up.

EVIDENCES OF JEALOUSY

But Witness Declares Insanity Is More Durable Than That Exhibited
When Prisoner Came to Connellsville to Kill Defense Rests Its Case

Testimony in the Foltz-Younklin murder case was closed at noon. Judge J. Q. Van Swearingen announced that the jury would be given the afternoon for deliberation and that the arguments would be started at 9 o'clock tomorrow. It was expected the case would be given to the jury by 5 o'clock in the evening.

Against the opinions of Pittsburgh alienists—Dr. Edward K. Mayer and Dr. Paul H. Franklin, testifying for the defense, the Commonwealth prosecutor, an alienist today whose judgment, from study of the case, was that Jacob K. Foltz was sane when he killed Benjamin R. Younklin here in November.

Called by the Commonwealth to rebuttal, Dr. Theodore Miller Dechares, a physician at an alienist, said:

"I am of the opinion that Foltz was sane at the time of the murder."

He explained that all the defendant had done at the time was within the range of normal conduct of a wrought-up individual after domestic difficulties.

There were evidences of jealousy and anger, the alienist said. The emotions were responsible for his actions.

"I think it possible he may have thought of killing his wife," Dr. Miller said. "I reason he was not insane when he went to Connellsville to kill a man. Insanity, to my mind, is more durable than that exhibited by this man."

Dr. Miller described the "twilight" stage as "clouded consciousness." "There was a conflict between the emotions, it is true, but it was not beyond the range of normal. Men do strange acts of this kind under the stress of emotion. Sometimes these acts are imprudent. We are far more emotional than we are intellectual. We have to constantly try to control our emotions. Most of the great moral questions arise from emotions. The sexual impulse is wrong. It is immoral. It is against the church and the state. Just what a common thing it is. Without emotion man is an insipid thing. The struggle of life is when our emotions and the best of us do it but imperfectly."

The defense rested at 9:35 today after Dr. Edward K. Mayer of Pittsburgh, who testified yesterday that Foltz was insane, had been cross-examined. Dr. Mayer said a remark of Younklin just before the shooting to the effect that Mrs. Foltz had been seen in company with other men was the spark which precipitated the insane act.

Nearly the entire day Monday was consumed in the examination of Dr. Mayer and Dr. Franklin.

Dr. Franklin declared "insanity" as a term used to designate an abnormal functioning of the mind. It may be due to the three classified causes. A structural change of the brain, such as a simple dementia, or paresis; chemical poisoning, such as typhoid fever, pneumonia, delirium, alcoholism or lead poisoning; and psychological causes, action on the brain or mind, such as an "irresistible impulse." The doctor said that insanity manifests itself in many ways and could be determined either by those skilled or unskilled in the science of medicine. In doubtful cases, the patient might be a successful business man and the matter of his insanity would go undiscovered, possibly for a great many years.

When the facts as he had observed them were related to an opinion. Dr. Franklin declared "that Jacob Foltz was insane at the time of committing the act and was the victim of an irresistible impulse" arising from or produced by a condition of mental disease affecting volition rather than perception, and while thus afflicted, one may fully understand an act but not have the power to control the impulse to prevent the act. He may be fully aware of the nature and consequences of his act and perceive that it is wrong but on account of his mental disease control is entirely impossible and the "irresistible impulse" asserts itself. The expert was on the stand for several hours and entered into many intricacies of the case.

Miss Harris of Brownsville, furor No. 10, became so ill at 1 o'clock that it was necessary for the clerk to order the entire jury to their quarters. She was in her seat today.

W. C. MULLAN, VETERAN FRICK EMPLOYEE, DIES

Following a lingering illness of consolidation of diseases, William C. Mullan, 65 years old, superintendent of the Continental No. 1 plant of the H. C. Frick Coke Company and one of the most widely known coal and coke men in the Connellsville region, died Monday night at 8:45 o'clock at his home at Continental. Although not expected, his death came as a great shock to the hundreds of friends who knew him through his connections with the Frick company.

Mr. Mullan was born at Fort Loud, Franklin county, February 15, 1859, a son of William K. and Mary A. Williams Mullan. He attended the public schools until 11 years old after which he began business life as a clerk in the store of John H. Hecner at Fort Loud. After four years he entered high school, attending two years. In 1880 he came to Fayette county and secured a position as a clerk in the store of Robert Carter at Dunbar and in 1881 he entered the service of the H. C. Frick Coke Company at its Broad Ford store, under Thomas Lynch, general superintendent.

In 1883 he was transferred to the Summit store as manager and pay roll clerk of the Summit mines. He returned to Broad Ford in 1885 as pay roll clerk and local manager at the works. In 1886 he was promoted to superintendent and placed in charge of the following mines and coke plants located along the Mount Pleasant Branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad with headquarters at Broad Ford: Henry Clay, Frick, Blair, Morris, Fidelity, Eagle, White and Summit. Later Sterling was added, a total of 1,055 acres. In August, 1907, he was transferred to Uniontown and made superintendent of Continental No. 1 plant, with 400 acres and employing about 400 men. He had the confidence of his employers, as attested by his 43 years of service. He was a thoroughly reliable and capable man.

Mr. Mullan was an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Uniontown and took an active interest in church work until his illness. December 12, 1906 he was married to Miss Minnie May Shupe, daughter of Daniel and Sarah Coase Shupe, of Mount Pleasant. To the union one son, Thomas Lynch Mullan, was born. Besides his wife and son he is survived by three brothers, John H. Mullan of Lehigh, George H. Mullan of Chambersburg, Rev. James M. Mullan of Philadelphia and one sister, Mrs. John H. Metz, of Fort Loud.

The funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home, followed by interment in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Many Diseases Traceable to Decayed Teeth

HARRISBURG, March 25.—Many diseases, such as rheumatism, heart trouble, etc., are caused by bad teeth. Dr. C. J. Hollister, chief of the dental hygiene division, says in this week's Department of Health talk.

Tooth decay is the most prevalent of all diseases—about 90 per cent of the human race are suffering from it. Eighty per cent of tooth decay can be prevented by proper and regular home care of the mouth and teeth, supplemented by periodical examination and treatment by a dentist.

The mouth is the vestibule of the body, and is well named—"The gateway to health." According to Dr. Hollister, all nourishment taken into the body passes through the mouth, and most diseases get in the same way. Give your teeth the same attention the housewife gives to tableware each time after using, and visit your dentist twice a year for examination and necessary treatment and you will have insurance against future discomfort, disfigurement and sickness.

By United Press.
HARVEY, Ill., March 25.—Four bandits today escaped with $150,000 in cash contained in two registers of mail sacks. The money was shipped from the Federal Reserve Bank at Chicago to the First National Bank at Harvey.

Russell was thrown to one side as the bandits, guns in hands, threw the mail sacks into an automobile and sped away.

DUNBAR TOWNSHIP DEBATING TEAMS WIN OVER N. U.

Judges Decide in Favor of Both Affirmative and Negative Outfits.

PERRY DIVIDES HONORS

Negative Team Wins Easily Over
South Brownsville but Affirmative Representatives Are Downed by River Town School in Annual Clash.

Negative and affirmative debating teams of the Dunbar Township High School, who were declared winners over the North Union High School debating teams, in debate conducted last evening at the Dunbar Township High School Auditorium at Lehigh, won at the North Union High School.

At Lehigh school, North Union was represented by Miss Gladys Miller and John Suttick, first and second speakers, Dunbar by Miss Grace Farley and Peter Horvath, while the Dunbar Township team at North Union was composed of Miss Virginia McGivern and Donald Sheehy.

The judges at Lehigh were James A. Dellavon, principal of Dunbar High School, J. M. Blythe, teacher of mathematics at Monaca, J. M. Blythe, principal of the Monaca High School, Mr. Guylock of Monaca, and Mr. Neely of Monaca.

The Lehigh judges were accompanied by Roy H. Lomberger, basketball and baseball coach at Monaca, formerly coach in all sports at Dunbar Township High.

The speakers were introduced by Principal W. E. Tisholt, who read the rules of the contest to the audience and to the judges, and further explained how the judges were to render their decisions, which was as follows:

Adherence to definition of terms and issues as outlined by the contest committee, preparation, analysis and structure, burden of proof, logic and evidence, in measuring the value of presentation, the following was considered: Position and bearing, voice, style, personality and gestures.

The Dunbar Township School (11-piece orchestra rendered several selections, and Miss Elizabeth Kelly and Helen Ketter sang, accompanied by Miss Mabel L. Will.

Displaying greater ability than that which won the 1,000 dollar silver loving cup last year, the Dunbarites received a verdict that was not a surprise. Last year's team, composed of Misses Virginia McGivern, Nellie Bair and Mary Crawford, Peter Horvath, Edward Miller and John H. Whorle, won the championship.

The question debated was "Resolved, That the Insurrection Policy of the United States Should Be Based, for the Present, Upon Reasonable Considerations Only."

The Perry Township High School, negative team, won handsily over South Brownsville's affirmative team, but the affirmative team of the Perry was less fortunate, dropping its debate.

TWINS WERE SWEETHEARTS, UNAWARES.

JAMES & JOSEPHINE BUCKLEY AT ONE YEAR OLD & AT 19 YEARS.

BOSTON, March 25.—Sweethearts they went to their parish priest to be married. They had been mutually attracted by the similarity in names—James Buckley and Josephine Buckley. The priest investigated their birth records and discovered that they were brother and sister twins. When they were babies they were placed in an orphan's home. They did not remember that or that they became separated. Such are the tricks of fate. "I'd rather have a brother than a husband, anyhow," Josephine said smilingly.

Senate Asks for Impeachment of Chase by House

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Senate today formally asked the House to institute impeachment proceedings against C. C. Chase, collector of customs in El Paso, Tex., and son-in-law of Albert B. Fall, because of his alleged participation in a conspiracy to mislead the Senate Oil Committee as to the source from which Fall obtained the $100,000, later shown to have been obtained from Delaney and for returning to testify to the committee.

The resolution instructing the House to undertake impeachment proceedings was introduced by Senator Walsh and quickly adopted.

Chase appeared before the committee Saturday and refused to answer questions on the ground that they might incriminate him.

Dr. B. Bell Connelley, Dr. J. B. Bell, who has been ill of grip at his home at Dawson, is getting along nicely. He expects to be able to be up today.

Fire Pumper Demonstrated In East Park

Members of city council and hundreds of citizens this afternoon witnessed a demonstration of an American LaFrance pumper, a part of the fire apparatus of Uniontown, and something that is being considered by the city council of Connellsville as an addition to the equipment here.

Two demonstrations were made, one in East Park addition, where the pressure is lowest and another in Water street where connection was made with a line of higher pressure. The fire truck is a Type 75 triple combination pump, chemical and hose, American LaFrance engine. It has a capacity of pumping the gallon of water per minute. When connection was made to East Park the pressure in the line was boosted from 38 pounds to 50 in a few minutes. The greater strength of the stream was easily visible to the eye.

On Water street the stream was thrown across the Baltimore & Ohio tracks into the Youghiogheny River. Eight men came from Uniontown with the truck. It was in charge of William H. Barclay, assistant chief. The others were George Scott, Chief Dean, Edward Kaufman, Albert Mahoney, drivers; George Donaldson, Frank Collins and James Smith.

JOHN MARSHALL DEAD, ANOTHER WAR VICTIM

John Marshall, a former well-known young man of this city, and a veteran of the World War, died Monday in a hospital at Tupper Lake, N. Y., where he had just taken several months in an effort to regain his health. He had not been well since his return from the war. He was severely injured overseas when a shell which exploded near him threw him under a truck, a wheel of which passed over his legs, resulting in the loss of the use of his knees. He was an officer in a battalion of engineers. He suffered from gas also.

Since coming back to the United States he had spent most of his time in hospitals, and for a time it was thought he had a chance for recovery of health, though he would have been not crippled.

Mr. Marshall left Connellsville about 20 years ago and was located at many parts of the United States at different times. He returned about 11 years ago but later left again. He served with distinction in the war, enlisting soon after the entry of the United States. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Marshall, are dead. A sister, Mrs. Eleanor Marshall Thomas, wife of Major R. S. Thomas of Camp Humphreys, Va., survives.

The body will arrive here over the Pennsylvania Railroad on Thursday morning. It will be taken to the Hill Grove cemetery by funeral director C. C. Mitchell, where interment will be made. After 11 o'clock, the American Legion, will furnish a firing squad and the pall bearers. Members of the organization are asked to present themselves, in civilian clothes, at the rooms Thursday morning at 10:15 o'clock. A brief service will be held at the grave.

Senate Probers on Trail of $32,000 Borrowed by Fall

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, March 25.—The Senate oil committee endeavored to trail to its source a mysterious $32,000 with which Albert B. Fall purchased ranch properties in New Mexico after the Teapot Dome lease was negotiated. The committee called M. D. Thatcher, president of the First National Bank of Pueblo, Colo., and trustee of the Thatcher estate with which Fall had financial dealings in an effort to learn whether he obtained it from these institutions, but was unsuccessful.

Thatcher said Fall had from time to time borrowed $32,000 from his company but could not account for the $32,000 with which Fall testified he had purchased properties after he had invested the $100,000 obtained from Delaney in other properties.

BRITISH AIRMEN OFF TO BEAT U. S. IN GLOBE CIRCLE

Commander McLaren Takes Lead, Quitting Base for Lyons at Noon Today.

FLYING CONDITIONS GOOD

Squadron Plans to Make Circuit in 200 Flying Hours and to Return to Cairo, England, by June 26.
Speedy Plans Distances Covered.

By United Press.
CAIRO, Egypt, March 25.—British efforts to beat America in the first airplane flight around the world started today.

At 12 o'clock this afternoon Commander McLaren, first of the three British flyers to get under way, took off from here for Lyons, France, on the first leg of the "one air journey." The high wind had abated and visibility was good. Commander McLaren made a preliminary test flight and found his engine functioning perfectly. He decided, however, to throw out part of his supply and heavy spare parts.

The commander then took the air, flying low and fast toward the French coast.

Two seaplanes and three airplanes flew overhead as McLaren started. They accompanied him a short distance from Cairo but were quickly outdistanced by the speedy world flight plane.

The airplane planned on making the entire trip of 23,441 miles in about 252 flying hours and be back in London by June 25.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 25.—America's "around the world" army flyers watched with interest today reports of the start of the British flight. They made little comment but expressed confidence that the American flight would be a success.

"The Americans will get under way again Sunday morning when they will hop off from Sand Point flying field for Vancouver, British Columbia here today."

WASHINGTON, March 25.—A challenge by the British to beat the world record to make a race out of the American and British attempts to fly around the globe has been declined by the War Department, it was learned here today.

The offer was rejected by the army air service on the ground that the country's flyers are undertaking a real effort to fly around the world without any regard to speed and can not risk a failure by making a race out of it.

Aged Woman, Thought Burned to Death, Is Victim of Murderer

By United Press.
NEW YORK, March 25.—Prison authorities to put on a small congregation in a rooming house on Lenox avenue March 10 found the remains of Miss Mary Coleman, 60-year-old spinster, and reported to the police that she had been burned to death.

This theory was accepted until today when Mary Farley appeared at police headquarters and told the amazing story of how her husband, Harry Penton, had murdered the woman with a hammer, remained in the room with the body for 36 hours and then saturating the corpse and the bed on which it lay, with gasoline, tried to destroy the evidence of his crime by fire.

Arrested on a charge of homicide, Farley is said to have confessed that he killed the little old woman, who weighed only 70 pounds, with one blow of a hammer in the belief that she was worth "thousands of dollars."

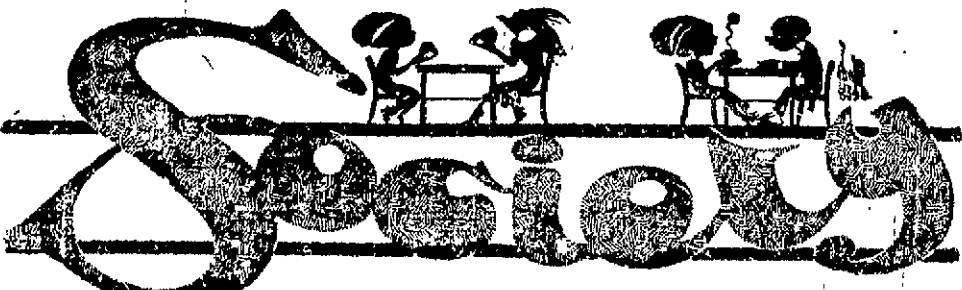

"But when I opened her pocket book," the alleged murderer is quoted as saying "I found only $15."

During the change of life I had the usual distressing symptoms—hot flashes, insomnia, etc.—and I am pleased to testify to the wonderful results I obtained from the Vegetable Compound. FORBES DISTRICT IS ORGANIZED FOR FIGHTING FIRES

The forest fire fighting forces of the Forbes District are again being organized for a busy fire season this coming spring. Forest inspectors and observers will be on duty during the months of April and May. The inspectors are H. C. Myers of Mount Pleasant, John C. Denny of Uniontown, N. G. Moore of Bakersville and L. H. Musser of Berlin. The towermen are George B. Cassidy, Stator Hill tower; Roy E. Maule, Negro Mountain tower; L. W. Morrison, Sugar Loaf tower; Andrew Weckfus, Hays Hill tower; Walter M. Goodwin, Goodwin Knob station; Clark Bridge, Bear Cave tower and L. A. Kaupp, Cannonsburg tower.

Where Knob station, three miles south of Conneltsville, on the lands of Judge J. C. Work has not yet been completed. Owners of woodlands and friends of the forestry cause are contributing toward the completion of this station. It will probably be in operation within a few weeks.

In addition to towermen and inspectors there is an emergency organization of 10 fire houses, 200 minute men, and about 1,200 "minute men." "Minute Men" are men who have consented to respond to a fire alarm at any time their assistance is required. They know their places on the fire line and are supplied with tools.

Last year there were 282 fires in the district, 18,826 acres of woodland were fire swept. Railroad locomotives were responsible for 23 per cent of the fires. As long as the companies continue to operate without cleaning up rights-of-way and without keeping screens in good repairs, fires from this cause will not be uncommon. Ten per cent of the fires were caused by people burning brush. Five per cent resulted from lightning operations and 15 per cent from transients. Inspectors will endeavor to secure the removal or elimination of serious fire hazards. Legal action will be taken in cases where the owner ignores requests to eliminate hazards. More than 1,000,000 forest tree seedlings remain for distribution. They are distributed for planting on idle lands and in woodlands without charge other than costs of packing and shipping which costs range from fifty cents to $1 per thousand. Seedlings are too small for commercial

Lucius Showers Is Assessed $25

Lucius Showers and Edward Hall, both colored, were fined $25 each in police court last evening following the arrest on a charge of gambling. A third member of the party, William Howe, did not appear for a hearing and his $25 forfeit was lifted. Lucius refused to testify and Hall became the chief witness. Showers declared the "game" had made up its mind he was guilty and it was "no use to say anything." Not a word in his own behalf would he speak. He said his fine "hurt him" the same amount. He declared the game was only a friendly one between the three and that none of the participants had anything to drink.

Finds Kellogg's Bran "Easy way to avoid constipation" after suffering for years

Constipation is a dangerous disease. It leads to many others. Twenty years' suffering with constipation, I found the easy and most pleasant way to cure it. I have been troubled with constipation for twenty years. After adopting the use of Kellogg's Bran, my stomach greatly improved, and had a special cure for constipation. I decided to only justice that you should know what your product has done for me, and what it is capable of doing for others. (The original of this letter is on file at the Kellogg Company, Battle Creek, Mich.)

Kellogg's Bran relieves mild and chronic constipation because it is ALL bran. It brings sure results. It sweeps, cleans and purifies the intestine in nature's own way. Don't expect a cure. Only ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's Bran, cooked and krumbled, is guaranteed to bring permanent relief—or your grocer returns your money. You should eat two tablespoonsful daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. The flavor is delicious—nutritious—cooked and krumbled. WHY SUFFER SO?

Why suffer from a bad back, from sharp, shooting twinges, headaches, dizziness and distressing urinary list? Connelleville people recommend Doan's Pills. Ask your neighbor. Could you ask for stronger proof of merit?

Mrs. C. M. Miller, 315 E. Crawford Ave., Connelleville, says: "I was troubled with kidney complaint and it became so bad that I was helpless in bed. My back began to ache intensely and my kidneys became congested. I gradually grew weaker and lost weight rapidly and finally I became so bad that I was in bed for eight months unable to move. My kidneys didn't act right and I often cried out with pain. I heard of Doan's Pills and the doctor was unable to help me. I tried them. Gradually I gained weight and every symptom disappeared. I was cured and have had no further trouble."

Looking After 100 Miles Of Streets Man's Job, In Street Inspector's Opinion

Street Inspector William McCormick has his hands full these days. With a force of six men he is called upon to look after 100 miles of paved streets in the city and now, multiplying his troubles, are coming scores of demands from over automobile owners to have ashes dumped in the alleys back of their homes to make them passable.

Inspector McCormick says he is doing the best possible under the circumstances. One truck and one team are the only facilities he has at his command and these are manned by half a dozen men.

Every evening as being bent towards making impassable streets passable, he said. Today the equipment was ordered to the West Side to haul ashes for the streets on this hill top. Applications for ashes to make alleys passable so automobiles may be placed in home garages are too numerous to mention, he said.

During the conversation with the inspector it was mentioned that the time is approaching when ashes will have to be hauled, not that will likely have to be borne by the property owners.

"Two bridges, seven, 100 miles of paved streets, there are only some of the things demanding our attention," said Mr. McCormick as he reviewed the tasks ahead. "We've got so much to do it is a problem to tell where to begin." Then his sober expression changed and he laughed, adding that, "Oh well, we are doing the best we can."

The demand for ashes has become greater with the advent of warm weather. As the frost leaves the ground the surface becomes soft and traffic over it makes deep ruts.

VANDERBILT LAD OF FOUR LOST FOR HOURS IN DARKNESS

Following his older brother, Jacob, who was walking to church at Connelleville, Frank Shafrenko, four years of age, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Shafrenko of Vanderhill, lost his way along the road to Connelleville, about a mile and a half east of Vanderhill, last evening about 6:30 o'clock.

A searching party, composed of several Boy Scouts and Connelleville Jerry Hitenour and several other lads went in search for him and found him sitting on a stone in a quarry, along the road, about 10 o'clock at night. He was crying bitterly.

Home Made Cough Mixture Best

Spreads Over Membrane, Soothes, Heals and Stops Cough Quick.

Make your own cough syrup in two minutes at home if you want the best. It costs but a trifle.

Simple coughs, or stubborn coughs, it doesn't matter which, this home made mixture will stop them quicker than any expensive cough syrup you can buy ready made.

Get from Connelleville Drug Co., or any druggist one ounce of Parmit (double strength)—to this add a little granulated sugar, an alcohol, and enough water to make one half pint—that's all there is to it, and children like it.

Like a soothing, healing poultice one costly substance in this home made cough mixture spreads itself completely over the membrane of the throat. This causes the most stubborn hang-on cough to cease almost instantly. No ordinary slow-acting cough syrup containing this expensive ingredient.—Advertisement.

THE COST CYCLE.

In the movement of the Bell Telephone Company to advance its rates the public sees another evidence of the operation of the cycle of costs.

The increasing demands for service required an extension of lines and additions to equipment. The cost of labor and everything entering into construction has advanced to such an extent, the company claims, that the investment per telephone has more than doubled since 1920, the date of the last advance. It is asserted that without larger revenue than the present schedule of rates provides, the company cannot meet the demand for new installations.

The situation by which subscribers will be faced, in case the Public Service Commission approves the new schedule, will be precisely the same as that by which they are confronted in every other matter and thing which affects the cost of living and doing business. Civilization has become so complex and so many things have become so essential, as necessities, which a few years ago were rated as luxuries which only the rich could enjoy, that living by the modern standards makes constantly increasing demands upon earning power and other sources of income.

How long the pyramid of costs is to continue no one can venture to predict. It is evident, however, that so long as the public is demanding more conveniences, more comforts, more luxuries and more of everything, both essential and non-essential, there can and will be no reduction in the cost, either of living or doing business.

PREFERRING JAIL TO PAYING FINES.

The commitment of two parents to jail for short time for refusal to pay fines imposed for violation of the truancy law shows that in such cases the magistrate before whom the matter came had no other alternative.
Fines have frequently been imposed for neglect or refusal of parents to send their children to school but instances are rare when the defendant in such actions prefers to go to jail rather than pay the fine. This is of course, their privilege but few parents will be disposed to make such a choice of penalty.

Much the better thing to do would be to avoid the necessity for the imposition of either a fine or a jail sentence. The large object here behind the compulsory school law is to better equip the children of school age for the duties of citizenship. There are occasional instances when the circumstances in the home life require children to be kept out of school at intervals. As a rule it is found that doing so in much against the wish of the parents. But in the majority of the cases where action under the truancy law becomes necessary it is found that the parents are without the desire to have their children secure the advantages of an education. They sometimes require their children to remain at home to perform some tasks instead of hurrying upon them being regular in their attendance at school.

It is this class of parents the attendance law was especially designed to reach in the interests of the children about whose future the parents are so little concerned. Such parents cannot boast of the quality of their citizenship if, as an alternative to paying a fine, they elect to serve a few days in jail.

The public will continue to be interested in watching the most interesting of the opinions of "experts" or the sensational narratives of witnesses.

An increase of half a billion in the amount of business done is fairly good proof that 1923 was not a bad year for the United States Steel Corporation and its subsidiaries.

Don't feel slighted if you have not been "investigated." Very likely some of your neighbors have been investigated in that private.

It is becoming increasingly difficult to do anything sufficiently scandalous to get on the first pages these days.

The man who invented "hotbeds" has been an investigation in that as well as the chairman who gives the color of probability in the accounts of his prowess with the rod and reel.

Between applications of the handkerchief to the organ of smell friends are extending a "Quoddy Sprig" greeting to friends these murky mornings.

The President and Tax Legislation

WASHINGTON, March 25.—When the first startling revelations were brought out by the Senate Committee investigating the oil leases, the country was astounded and followed not only with deep interest but with a kind of fear the succeeding testimony. No one questioned the fact that the Senate had performed a great public duty in bringing to light an intolerable condition of affairs.
With the passing of the days, however, the investigations have assumed a purely political aspect, and the country is rapidly losing interest in the mass of hearsay evidence and innuendo which is being spread upon the records, some of it from unworthy sources.

People are beginning to ask whether the Senate has entirely lost sight of its primary duty—that of legislation. Although almost four months have elapsed, little has been done to follow the recommendations made by the President in his message, and tax reduction, the most vital of all, is still being considered in committee. There is an ever increasing pressure upon the President to demand of Congress that they attend to their first duty and give the relief which is so sorely needed by different sections of the country.

Having asserted in no uncertain terms his own rights as the chief executive, the President has without the prerogatives of Congress.
His first aim is the passage of legislation, and no thoughtful observer believes that this would be advanced by an open break with Congress.

If, therefore, the President has remained silent, it is because his sole desire is to secure new laws and because he prefers to work by conference and personal contact with the help of popular opinion rather than in the more spectacular and less effective way of an attack upon the legislative branch.

Should the legislative branch of the government, namely, Congress, not respond to the suggestions made by the President it is more than probable that President Coolidge will apply pressure, as he is determined that legislation for the benefit of the country must be enacted into laws this year. The President is determined that a measure that will reduce taxes be passed, and will use all the power of his office to accomplish that result.

Victimizing the Farmer

Senator Arthur Capper
in the Forum.

For many years the farmer has been the sole producer who has not had a voice in determining the value of his product. He is the only man in business in this country today who must accept what is offered him for his products while compelled to pay what others ask him for their products. As an inevitable result, prices received by the farmer for his products are entirely out of balance with the price of practically everything he must buy. When the farmer takes his dollar to town to buy the few things he requires in income permits, he finds it worth but 75 cents in terms of other commodities. If business is to prosper normally, year in and year out, the buying power of the farmer must be restored, and our immediate purpose must be to find means to restore a price equation that will make the farmer's dollar worth as much as the other fellow's dollar.

I do not anticipate an elaborate farm program in this Congress. While I believe the farm situation should have first consideration, I can not say, and I have never said, that Congress alone can solve all the farmer's problems or put an end to all his troubles. Congress cannot repeal or amend economic laws. There are no miracle-workers in Washington. None the less, it is up to Congress to give the immediate attention and its best efforts to the problems of agriculture.

What are not asking the government to make good their losses, or to subsidize the industry, or to fix an arbitrary price for farm products. The farmer is not asking more credit to continue his operations at a loss. He is head-over-heels in debt now. More credit would simply make his load heavier. What he wants and must have is a market for his crops at a price that will give him cost of production and a fair profit.

We need a government marketing corporation to find an outlet for our surplus farm commodities and stabilize the price of wheat and other agricultural products along sound and business-like lines.

Field Day for Sensationalists

Chicago Black Diamond.

LaFollette is going to run for president. True to his historic form, he permits the daily press to chronicle the fact that he is about to enter the lists for election to the highest office in the gift of the people. Such action on his part should be welcomed, as it may tend to force off the mask of Republicanism which this renegade of the party has managed to hold behind him during his years of radicalism. Should his candidacy force declarations of policy which will cause the rank and file of voters to see and appreciate the bolshevism with which he is saturated, and which he manages to keep thinly veiled by jingoistic appeals to the stars and stripes and the principles of our fathers, it will indeed be well. The fact that a man of his known character should be permitted to actually aspire to the position of chief executive is in itself a rare testimonial of the freedom of the individual in our country.

The present season seems to be a continuing field day for sensational-ists and disturbers in the ranks of both parties. Investigation is following investigation in an apparently unending and in a wholly bewildering array. The time of our legislators and the columns of our newspapers are almost wholly occupied with probes and railings into the past. No memory has been too sacred, no position has been too high, to be subject to the finger of suspicion and to the veils of accusation. In a desperate effort of few to discredit many, there has been measure of vilification and accusation on every side.

The reprehensible thing is not the effort to uncover corruption, if any, or to show the means to which the delivers stoop.

Just Folks

Dagmar A. Guest.

DREAMS OF A CAR-OWNER.

I can hear the springtime calling as I linker with my car.
And I want to be out driving where the grass is green and the sky is blue.
I want the open country with its pictures of the spring.
The miles of rolling roadway and the arched blossoming trees.
I want to hear the chatter of the blackbirds over my head.
And I want my car to take me from the busy heart of town.

Oh, the more than million of service that my motor gives me!
There's the glory of the hill top and the beauty of a tree.
There are lakes of placid silver, which I fancy as I pass.
Must be used by all the angels for their morning looking glass.
There's the fragrance of the clover,
there's the sweet smell of a daisy.
And the smiles of distant neighbors—about me and my car makes them mine.

Round about me, as I linker with their hills of iron and steel.
Are the visions of enchantment which the distance mail reveals.
All the treasures of the springtime I have but to go and share.
Not in vain does beauty call me, for my car will take me where I will.
I can hear the strains of my dream,
I can wander where I will,
And at Mother Nature's table I can stop and take my fill.

Oh, I don't know how to tell it, but I don't want to let it go.
Not as rich as a stream, as splendid as some flowers in the field.
It is my dream of young America. When the highway for the future,
And the music of the song birds and the drowsing of the bees,
And a far friend's merry laughter,
From the busy heart of the city and the burdens of the day.

Sports Duds Now Emphasize Colors

White Is Relieved by Winsome Shades; Novelty Flannel Is Chic.

White unrelieved by any color is evidently not in the mode, according to the designers of sports clothes. A fashion writer in the New York Herald, that those put out for use in the South with many points in this department of the wardrobe does not deter the tanks from expressing many new ideas and details which are decidedly interesting. That color combined with white shall be part of every sports costume, or for any other costume designed for country wear seems to be a feature with which they like to dally.

The sleeveless jacket is one of the novelties used to introduce the required color note, and pinks and blues are responsible for another form of treatment. Entry to custom last year, the hat is more frequently white and the color used as part of the design of the dress or suit instead of the plain white dress and hat of bright color. It must be admitted that one of the difficulties with this ending is that the white hat is not so apt to be wearing as one with some tints. An effective one worn is of Roman style and apparently will be well received later in the season.

White flannel suitings a material of undoubted popularity is used for the foundation of a suit with a color flannel novelty, designed for trimming the skirt and for the sleeveless jacket. The novelty flannel is so delightful for it merits a description by itself. It is a form of a tufted material.

Distinguished in Line and Material Is This Sports Costume of Novelty Tufted Flannel White With Red Blue and Yellow

which has been seen in one form and used for winter suits and coats. This particular sample is a white, short-sleeved suit with red, blue and yellow tufts, exposed in the triangles and other places.

Heavy knits which are being used extensively for sweaters and coats are now seen with a wide, dark, ribbed collar in the neck, and one can imagine that this mode will be popular and lead to further development in the few months' run of the season, noted in the list and sketches from a list.

Knitted Wool Frocks and Scarfs Popular

A very popular and useful set of knitted wool frocks and scarfs is the skirt suit with a wide, dark, ribbed collar in the neck, and one can imagine that this mode will be popular and lead to further development in the few months' run of the season, noted in the list and sketches from a list.

With a continued influx of mail for a full hour of the day showing the art in many forms it is to be expected that the use of knitted wool suits would continue to be popular. The fact of it being a popular and useful set of knitted wool frocks and scarfs is the skirt suit with a wide, dark, ribbed collar in the neck, and one can imagine that this mode will be popular and lead to further development in the few months' run of the season, noted in the list and sketches from a list.

Many Chic Belts Are Among Spring Styles

Belts are assumed to presuppose slenderness and the outline is slim. But these are now a part of the fashion, and a belt is being worn with the one-piece frock. It is in a way slightly the same as the dress, chemise dress or suit dress. Some most artistic belts are being worn of leather, some of silk, some of cotton, some of wool, some of fur, some of velvet, some of all of these materials. Some are all of beads or sequins or pearls, in cut steel or rhinestone or while the newest extravagance, a straw belt studded with woolen flowers, is quite popular.

New Spring Overblouse Shown in Suit Effect

A new overblouse in suit effect, this smart gray silk costume is trimmed in red crepe canton and finished with huge pearl buttons.

Costume Blouses in Satin and Georgette

Not one stroke behind the designers of fine dresses are the creators of blouses. If a tunic dress is good there are times when a tunic blouse may be better, according to their philosophy. They put them forth under the name of costume blouses if the blouse be long enough to warrant it, or as overblouses if the blouse part is a little shorter. In either case the design is apt to be rather elaborate in heading or other trimming, although seldom as in cut. Frocks are more elaborate in the cut of the skirt or the drape than in the waist, and this leaves the blouse in the same relative position. The cut therefore remains simple, but colors and elaboration are unlimited.

The lingerie blouse comes back into use with certain changes and the crepe de chine blouse continues as one of the most useful adjuncts in the wardrobe. The tailored blouse is a thing, in itself separate and of an entirely different order. For the semi-tailored type of blouse there are some interesting models made of printed crepe and novelty materials trimmed with wide collar and cuffs, a very good blouse to wear with the tailored suit for town.

In these blouses that are neither suit nor frock blouses one also will find a blouse with the deep, full skirt, which trims a suit and adds a touch to the effect. Particularly new that the designers styles are again being put forth. Lattice-work trimmings, in the same fabric is a form to which many makers are partial for crepe mod is.

An unusual blouse of crepe is original in its use of false pockets for decoration. A light tone silk blouse, rectangular, which opens as if a pocket were placed between. California Utopia Has Turned Out a Failure

Dreams of another Utopia were shattered recently when the majority of stockholders of the Santa Barbara Fellowship Colony filed a petition for dissolution of their corporation in the superior court in Santa Barbara. The colony was organized June 1, 1921, as a religious, agricultural or political doctrine, but "to encourage the spirit of good will and mutual service at all times," says the Los Angeles Times.

The petitioners give the following reasons for dissolution: "The object for which said corporation was organized have not been fully attained."

There appears to be no possibility of accomplishing the ideals and purposes of incorporation.

It is essential that the debts of the corporation be paid and this is possible only by liquidation of assets. The colony purchased a large tract of land or farms in the city limits of Santa Barbara and to date not more than ten houses or shacks have been erected.

TRYING TO SNEAK INTO U. S. RISKY

Many Killed and Robbed by Smugglers.

Pity the poor alien, who, oppressed by circumstances in his native land decides to come to America, only to find that the quota assigned his nation under the law of the United States has been filled; for of such is the horde of victims preyed upon by the alien-smugglers of Mexico, freebooters, who vie with the famous pirates in blood-thirstiness and unscrupulousness.

The alien who entrusts himself to the mercy of this crew, which agrees for a stipulated fee, to place him upon American soil, has risked not alone capture by the United States immigration officials, and consequent deportation to his land of origin but his very life thereby.

Judging by reports reaching the border from the seaports of Mexico, an eager flock of immigrants constantly floods the towns of the Mexican littoral, each anxious to invade the land of promise beyond the Rio Grande.

Operate From Tampico. Tampered, because of its comparative nearness to the border long has been the favorite landing place for these people; similarly it has been the "hang-out" of several desperate gangs of cut-throats, masked under the guise of alien-smugglers.

The alien handing himself over to the smuggler pays high for the service that is promised, even guaranteed, but which all too often fails to be delivered. The fee is based largely upon what the immigrant may have with him. If he is incautious and displays much money, the fee will be as near the sum total as possible. Of course, there is a minimum fee and without considerable ready cash no alien could count upon starting his trek for the border.

A few, a very few, actually do reach American soil and the comparative safety of the larger cities, where, if they are lucky, they have the opportunity to hide indolently.

Many are caught and turned back to their lands by the American immigration authorities, but many never reach American soil, or if they do, "lay low" to such good purpose that their relatives or friends, waiting anxiously in Mexico, fail ever to hear from them again.

If they go by water, launches are used in the afternoon. After their objective is the lower Texas coast, between Brownsville and Corpus Christi, where the practically deserted shore line offers excellent chance of landing without apprehension. If the alien is wise, he insists upon going ashore near Galveston, for the shores between Brownsville and Corpus Christi are sparsely populated and there is excellent chance that the alien will pass unperceived or, if he is compelled to go into some small town, where his appearance would lead to quick arrest.

Many Have Disappeared. Once they pass Galveston and reach Houston, and the low for a time, they have a chance to enter the interior through the machinations of an "underground railroad" declared by immigration authorities to be operated from headquarters in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Chicago, St. Louis and other large cities of the East and Middle West. A few even are sent to the Pacific coast. It is said, but not many.

At these launch loads of would-be entrants, and particularly Chinese, have disappeared. The smugglers are returning have relinquished security that they landed, for men on the Texas coast and left them there as they had agreed. But waiting friends or relatives never received word from the men and feared the worst.

The regularity of disappearance of aliens who, singly or in small groups, tried to run the international boundary guard long ago led to suspicion of foul play. This was clinched to certainty when a few months ago the Mexican government was set upon by the Mexican who had been hired to smuggle them across the Rio Grande. Five, while the sixth, aided by fire-arms, escaped. Two Mexicans were executed by a firing squad for this murder.

Radio Craze Affects 2,000,000 Britishers

More than 2,000,000 of aerial waves have been erected in Great Britain in the last twelve months, so much has the radio craze seized the public. It is estimated by officials of the British Broadcasting company that 2,000,000 people are entertained daily at a cost of a farthing each.

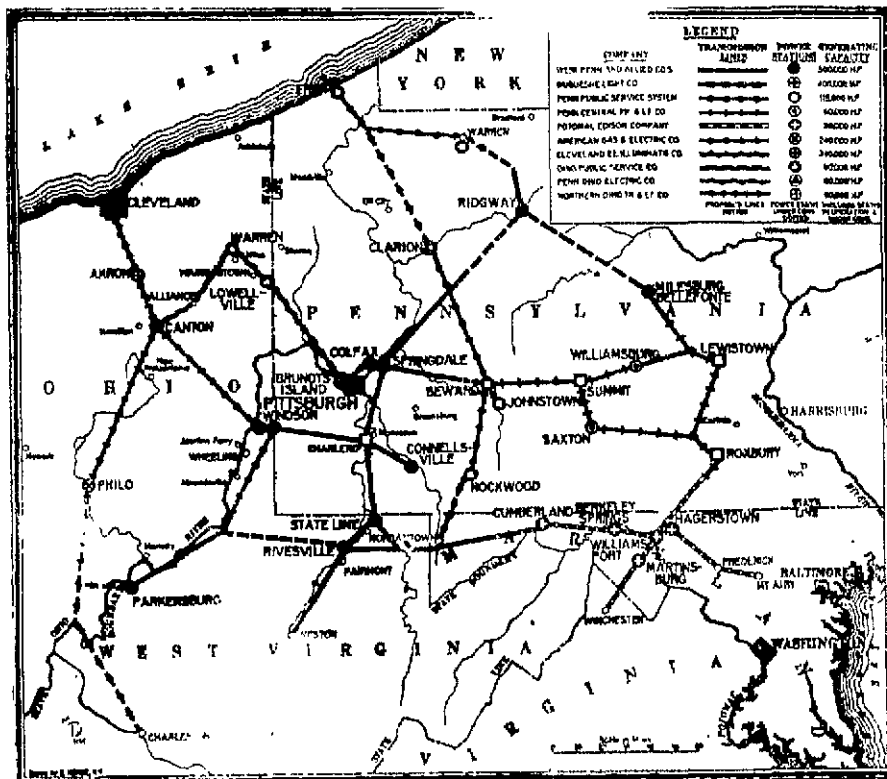

The company claims that wireless has stimulated industry considerably. It has necessitated the opening up of a new sub-band in the directory for "wireless supplies dealers."

Five hundred thousand dollars has been paid to the entertainment industry in salaries, fees and copyright royalties, and large numbers of engineers and studio staffs are given employment at the various sending stations.

Sugar From Burroughs. German and Austrian scientists have come forward with the statement that burroughs and certain other kinds of water grasses and reeds contain sugar, and possibly in sufficient quantity for commercial use. A content in some cases as high as 20 per cent is mentioned. Plants are in hand to start a factory.

Then He Pls. Where are you going, my pretty baby? I'm going to an honest, good old, old girl. Who will you choose at, pretty baby? At-Chew! At-Chew! At-Chew! she said.

The "Coal Field Super-Power Group" An Important Part of the Greater System

Territory to be served by the "Coal Field Super-Power Group," of which the West Penn Power Company and associated companies will be the dominant factor. Forty stations of the various companies already equipped have a generating capacity of 3,000,000 horsepower and serve 7,500,000 people located in five states.

West Penn Power and Associated Companies Important Factor in Coal Field Super-Power Group

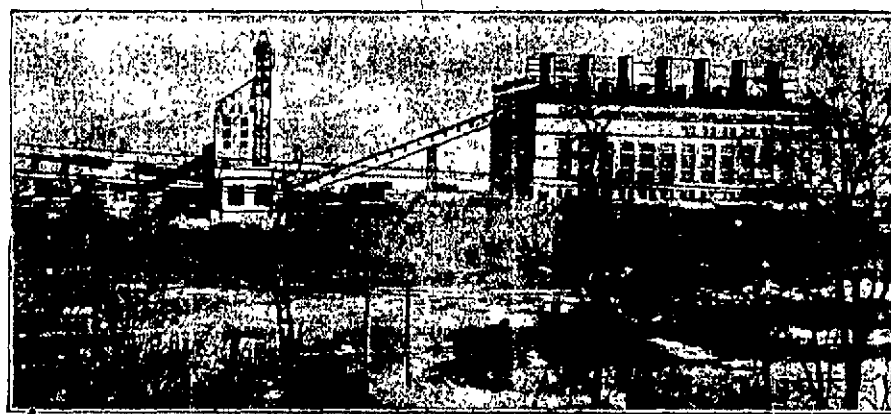

The importance of the "Coal Field Super-Power Group" in the giant power scheme for the eastern United States and Canada, and the importance of the West Penn Power Company in the sectional group, are strikingly shown in the map accompanying this article.

The West Penn, shown in unbroken heavy lines, and the Potomac Edison Company and the Keystone Power Company, which are financially controlled by the American Water Works & Electric Company, already supply the major portion of the territory embraced by the group. Lines and plants under construction will give these companies a still greater scope for power distribution.

Of the significance of the working agreements among the participating companies in the "Coal Field Super-Power Group," H. Hobart Porter, president of the American Water Works & Electric Company says: "This is the most definite step that has yet been taken in super-power development in the northeastern part of the United States. It represents the beginning of a system that should, in the belief of our leading statesmen and electrical authorities, cover the whole eastern part of the United States."

"The importance of linking this group of companies together is based on three things. First, because of their geographical position; secondly, because they serve the 'Workshop of the World'; but most important of all, because they provide means whereby power generated at the mouths of coal mines can be distributed widely and can be exchanged for power developed by the waters of New England, New York and the Appalachian Water Shed.

Cheaper Power and More Power. These companies by cooperation

Spragueville Power Plant of West Penn Power Company. It is supplied by coal from its own mine directly across the Allegheny river. The coal is hauled in mine cars through a tunnel under the river, taken by a conveyor up the incline shown in the illustration to bins at the top of the plant, and from there is automatically fed to the water-turbine boilers. The plant is already equipped with 150,000 horsepower of generating units and is designed for expansion to an ultimate of 400,000 horsepower.

can furnish more reliable power, ultimately reduce the price at which power can be sold and therefore increase the demand, which will have a tendency to further decrease the cost. The companies can best serve themselves by thus extending their usefulness to the public.

"In the future we will doubtless see power costs still further reduced. The natural tendency under such conditions will be to operate to a maximum the capacity of the plants and in times of light load to close down the less efficient plants, this being to the interest of both the companies and the public.

Power From the Mouth of Mine.

"To illustrate the efficiency of modern power plants, the Spragueville plant of the West Penn Power Company, a station of the most modern type, can be cited. This plant has a capacity of 150,000 horsepower of generating apparatus and has an ultimate capacity of 400,000 horsepower. It is on the Allegheny river, and thus has an adequate supply of condensing water. Its coal comes from a company mine just across the river. The coal is loaded into mine cars in the mine conveyed through a tunnel under the river by electric locomotives; is picked, weighed and crushed, then dumped into a traveling belt, conveyed to bins at the top of the plant and from there by automatic stokers to the fires. No one but the miner handles the coal, and even the process of ash removal is mechanical. The high economy of this process, together with diversity of load is well shown by the fact that the power can be, and is, sold at coal mines at a lower price than the miners can generate it themselves.

"A very important advantage of this method of generating power is that mine schedules can be laid out long in advance and the miners can therefore work regularly, without the frequent shut-downs that are the bane of the coal-mining industry. Indeed, if most of our coal were burned at the mine, the present problem of the coal industry, that is, intermittent employment, would be solved.

"Other plants of the companies in the group comparable to the Spragueville plant are located at Colfax, Connellsville, Seward, Saxton, Dunrocks Island, Pennsylvania; Windor and Riverside, West Virginia; Williamsport, Maryland; Philo, Ohio, and elsewhere.

The Northwestern United States and Canada Super-Power System, made possible by the coal-field super-power. The water power of the north, indicated by circles, is joined with power from the coal fields, the shaded areas, and distributed to almost every part of the United States east of the Mississippi river.

War, the Pittsburgh-Cleveland district was called upon for large amounts of military supplies, but trouble immediately arose in this district because of the lack of power. There was imminent danger that the overworked power systems of the district should break down at one time the street car schedules of Pittsburgh had to be reduced to half the city's needs in order to permit the power to be used in the manufacture of war supplies.

"The various companies serving this district now, however, have an ample supply of power, and more could be quickly added in case of a national emergency. Not only could existing industries operate at full capacity on war supplies, should the need arise, but many more could be established here, thus making it possible to remove this vital work from the militarily-weak Atlantic Coast and locating it behind the barrier of the Allegheny Mountains."

Grass Cuttings May Be Left on the Lawn

For the best lawn, care should be given by making the litter off early in the spring either with a wooden-roofed rake or with an iron rake with a small potato on each end of the teeth will not remove the dry grass clippings about the roots of the plants, where the United States Department of Agriculture.

Cuttings should be left early with the lawn mower set as high as possible and should be repeated frequently. The clippings should all remain upon the lawn. The more of these clippings that can be retained about the roots of the grass the better the chances for a good lawn.

Waiting should be delayed as long as possible but when it becomes necessary it should be applied in a spray in one place for four to six hours and then in another place. Six hours after watering the ground should be wet four inches deep in heavy soil and six inches in lighter ones. Another watering should not be needed for two weeks.

A growth begins to appear in early summer. It may be stimulated by the application of one pound of nitrate of soda or sulphate of ammonia to each 1,000 square feet of lawn at intervals of a month. The former in particular should only be applied when the soil is wet after a rain or a heavy watering as else should be applied in solution.

SET OF GOLF DON'TS CAUSES MUCH TALK

Just What Not to Do Minute-ly Described in Bulletin.

In a recent issue of the Green Section bulletin of the United States Golf Association is contained a set of "don'ts in golf" that embody much feeling. It reads as follows:

"Don't move, whistle, talk, sneeze, cough, groan, grunt or even think aloud, while a stroke is being played."

"Don't stand close to in front of, behind or cast shadows across the player's line, while he is addressing a putt. If the ball hits the cup it then becomes your duty to restrain the player from any acts of violence."

"Don't play from a tee until the party in front have all played their second shot, replaced their divots, re-lighted their pipes, concluded their golf stories, collected their caddies, selected their next clubs and are well out of range."

"Don't play up to a putting green until the party in front have all holed out, practiced their missed putts, replaced the flag, fixed up the score cards, exchanged their putters for drivers and all players and caddies are off the green."

"Don't be vexed if the players in front can't find their lost ball. Should they eventually signal you to play through and then play along with you, show appreciation by giving each of them a cheer. The 'For de Kiddeed' is made for this purpose and sold by all fireworks stores."

"Don't fall to fill up and to smooth over nearly all footprints in the bunker sand. If you carry in your bag a small garden rake, a bricklayer's trowel and a wire broom, the operation will require only about half an hour."

"Don't neglect immediately and properly to replace the turf. A small sprinkling can, a canteen of water, an ordinary rolling pin, a package of grass seeds added to your equipment will reduce this obligation to a mere pleasure."

Sybil Sets New Mark

Miss Sybil Bauer of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, Ill., who, at the swimming carnival recently held at Miami, Fla., broke the world's record for the 100-meter backstroke swim, setting a new mark of 1 minute 28.5 seconds. Her old world's record was 1:30.1-5.

McEwan, Army Coach, to Retire at End of Season

Capt. John J. McEwan, head coach of the Army football eleven of 1931, will not be in charge of gridiron affairs next fall, according to a recent announcement.

Captain McEwan has been ordered to foreign service and will be far from the plains while football is being played. His successor has not been named, but it is reported that the post will be filled by Maj. O. D. Daly, coach from 1912 to 1922, or by Captain Fehrdard, former quarterback star, who has served as an assistant coach.

Captain McEwan has been identified with army football since 1918, during the time he spent in the service during the war. He played on the teams from 1918 to 1920 and was rated as one of the greatest centers in the game. He was assigned to assist Major Daly in 1920 and for four years was line coach, succeeding Daly as head coach when the latter resigned a year ago.

Chadbourne First to Sign

The first player to sign a contract with the Vernon club for the season of 1932 was the oldest player in point of service, Chester Chadbourne. The veteran had a big year in the Coast league last season, but it is said he will be traded off for a younger man if a deal can be made that pleases him. There is nothing wrong with him, but Manager Phil Hanks of Vernon wants new blood all around.

Dixon Manager of Waterloo

Cletus Dixon, former University of Chicago star and for two years past with the Cedar Rapids team, has been traded to Waterloo that he might become manager of that team, succeeding Bert Whiston. Dixon started his baseball career as an outfielder but last year played most of his games at first base for Cedar Rapids.

Carl Sawyer in Protest

As a result of the mix up in the Pacific Coast league when it briefly consisted of two presidents and Secretary Farrell had to temporarily take charge of affairs at least one case of a player has gone to Judge Landis. It is that of Carl Sawyer, Vernon club pitcher. Sawyer thought it had them and sold him to Wichita. Now Sawyer claims two clubs did not waive in the general confusion and he protests to Landis that the transaction affecting that he can obtain employment in the Coast league.

Art Fletcher Helped by Life in the Open

Sitting on the bench and musing a ball club—and spending the winter in the open—have done wonders in a way for Art Fletcher.

The fans of Philadelphia hardly will recognize the manager of the Phils when they see him this spring. He's developed into a ruddy faced, equine—but he hasn't lost any of his old disposition and his jaw sets as firmly as ever.

He asked waivers on no less than fourteen members of the Phils team but it was explained that he had no serious intentions—just the habit clubs have of "putting players on the mark."

Fletcher wished to know putting it in another way what sort of opinion other managers have of his staff.

DOBIE-ZUPPKE TEAM TO TEACH COACHES

Cornell Mentor to Lecture to Illinois Students.

Gilmour Dobie football coach at Cornell university has accepted Bob Zuppke's invitation to return to Illinois and lecture to the students of the 1932 summer course for coaches.

Dobie made his initial appearance at Illinois last summer and gave a football course independently of the one given by Coach Zuppke. The class schedules were arranged without conflict and most of the 420 students enrolled in both courses.

Incidentally this was the largest number of students that ever attended a similar course at Illinois or elsewhere.

Zuppke's wonderful Illinois team and Dobie's smooth machine at Cornell demonstrated again that these coaches reign second to none in the football world.

Illinois won all of her eight games, including five victories over leading conference teams and one over Nebraska who conquered Notre Dame. Dobie's "Big Red" team finished its third season undefeated. At the University of Washington Dobie did not taste defeat in nine years. Evidently he is on the road to another long string of victories.

Coach Gilmour Dobie.

These men are wonderful coaches and equally capable of instructing summer classes in the fine points of football. At first blush no two individuals appear more dissimilar. Zuppke is small, wiry, and full of restless energy. Dobie is tall, amazingly slender, and cautious in movement and thought. They possess, however, many characteristics in common. Both are dominant, very personable, and speak forcefully and fluently and each has a fund of droll humor that breaks out most unexpectedly.

Most students usually disperse after lectures and hurry away. Not so with the pupils of Zuppke and Dobie. After class the men are surrounded by an eager gallery hanging on to every word as interesting happenings of historic games or great players were related. Many desired a solution of personal coaching perplexities and obtained ready counsel. Assuredly the Zuppke-Dobie team was a success.

BASEBALL BORN IN THE LAND OF SHUSH

Not a Game of "Glorified Rounders" as Some Think.

Baseball is not a game of "glorified rounders," as some historians contend. Outside of passing the buck, it is the oldest known game.

Credit for the origin of baseball is divided between Ok, the son of Wok and Ug, the son of Wuk, two young athletes who lived about the year 20000 B. C.

Ok and Ug lived in caves on opposite sides of a little valley in the ancient land of Shush and there was great rivalry between them and their families.

Whenever Ok felt the spirit moving him, he would heave an armful of smooth round stones across the valley into Ug's front door and naturally Ug would retaliate, and thus they whittled away many a prehistoric day. In time they became quite proficient in throwing stones and in catching them on the fly. Thus developed what is now known as "playing catch."

There was a cavern in the community known as Ump. He had an in growing disposition and was hated cordially by men, women, children and dinosaurs alike. One day Ump was walking down the valley, grumpy as usual, and when he heard the stones whistling past his ear he assumed a commanding aspect and made a jerking motion with his right thumb and cried "That's out!"

Immediately Ok and Ug forgot their feud and began bouncing smooth round stones off Ump's dome. It made a great hit with the spectators who had gathered on the hillside to watch the daily game. They became so enthused that they started tossing war clubs, hatchets and marrow bones at Ump and chased him four miles down the valley.

That is how baseball originated, and that is why every man feels an uncontrollable urge to heave something at an Ump.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

At the Theatres

The Paramount

"THE ISLE OF DOUBT"—With Dorothy Mackall, Wyndham Standing and George Fawcett in the stellar roles, is on view today at the Paramount.

This has all the romance and adventure that the public craves. A ruthless wife and her liver, a penniless idler, kidnapped by the husband, and all these left for months on a tropical island where their primitive outdoor existence works the wife's regeneration and the lover's degeneration.

The characters are introduced and the plot gets on its surprising and dramatic way in an atmosphere of wealth, some of the most important scenes transpiring at a Hawaiian costume ball. Then the main characters sail for the Isle of Doubt on a yacht, after which the background is one of palm trees, white sand beach and rolling surf. Hamilton Smith's direction has snap and punch, vigorous action and unexpected twists.

Wednesday and Thursday "Through the Storm" will be shown.

The Soisson

"THE MIDNIGHT ALARM"—Showing today and tomorrow at the Soisson under the auspices of the New Haven Film Company, is one of the most human and realistic dramas of life as it is lived over told in pictures. No finer bit of work has ever been done by any actress than that displayed by Alice Calhoun in one of the swiftest-moving photoplays produced.

"The Midnight Alarm," whimsically chronicling as Sparks, lost daughter of wealth, Miss Calhoun gives a characterization that wins its way into the sympathetic hearts of spectators.

"The Midnight Alarm" is a story of a plotting business man, Elias Carrington, who plays his partner Thornton to obtain his wealth. Mrs. Thornton is driven to death before an onrush of trials in trying to escape from Carrington in an automobile. Susan, her daughter, is found to be safely and is picked up last by Mrs. Borg, who raises her as her own.

Percy Marmont, Cullen Landis and Joseph Kilgour who played "Heavy" earned great praise for their remarkable character interpretation. George Pierce was excellent as the hardened father, while Kille Bradley gave a pathetic touch as Mrs. Thornton.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Harry Carey will be seen in "The Night Hawk."

The Orpheum

"PONJOLA," a First National picture, which opened yesterday at the Orpheum for a three day engagement, is as near to picture perfection as any photoplay that has been seen in this city for many months. It is a picture that is not going to disappoint those who read the book. Rather are the readers going to like the play even better than the story. "Ponjola" is a brilliant photoplay drama based on the story which ran serially in the popular magazine and later was an monthly one of the "six best sellers." It centers about the adventures of a refined Englishwoman who, disgusted with her sex, masquerades as a man and endeavors to hide her identity among the hardened characters of the wild. While the title is taken from the native name for liquor, the play is in no way a preachment against intoxicants, but it tells a story nevertheless in which "ponjola" plays a prominent part.

As a man, the heroine (in part played by Anna Q. Nilsson) fights for the redemption of a man, who is fast becoming the victim of the strange drink of that glamorous country. The plot moves quickly, passing from one thrilling incident to another. It is a picture that will be a treat for those who enjoy plausible drama and romance. "Ponjola" is interpreted by a brilliant all star cast, which includes Anna Q. Nilsson, James Kirkwood, Tully Marshall, Ruth Clifford, Edward Sturgis, Claire McDowell, Claire Du Broy and Bernard Randall.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Astor Moreno and Jacqueline Logan will be seen in "Starring Barbers."

Teaspoonful of Powder from Italy Placed in Shoes Relieves Man of Rheumatic Pain Almost at Once

When he went into the store to get his marvelous powder, he was a cripple. Because of the terrible, torturing effects of rheumatism he was crawling about on two crutches.

Later the same man, Mr. P. B. (name on request), of New York City, wrote the following letter: "It gives me pleasure to inform you that one box of your powder completely cured me in three days of rheumatism from which I have suffered for some time."

The discoverer of this powder is Alessandro Volta, the well-known Italian physicist for whom the electric volt was named. He discovered a scientific combination of certain ingredients which he compounded into a fine powder. This powder, when shaken into the shoes or stockings, is intended to penetrate immediately through the myriad pores in the soles of the feet.

He has been so successful in the treatment of thousands of cases of rheumatism, many of which were considered all hopeless, that the American distributors have authorized local druggists to dispense the powder with an unqualified guarantee that the entire cost of the first box will be refunded if you are not wonderfully relieved.

If you suffer from rheumatic pains, you owe it to yourself to try this remarkable and revolutionary scientific treatment. It is absolutely harmless and will not cost one cent if you do not receive wonderful relief.

You can get a box of Volta from such good druggists as Connellsville Drug Co., C. Roy Hartzel, Laundry Drug Co.,—Advertisement.

Mothers You Can Prevent Children From Taking Cold

Next Time They Come in Wet and "Sniffing" Rub This Vapor Salve over Throat and Chest.

When children come in from play with feet wet, noses blue and hands like lumps of ice, you feel sure that they are "in for a cold."

But the next time try Vicks. At bedtime rub this vaporizing salve well in over throat and chest and cover with a warm flannel cloth.

The body heat, releases the ingredients—Menthol, Camphor, Eucalyptus, Juniper Tar, etc.—in the form of vapors, and these vapors go directly to the air passages, stimulating the mucous membrane to repel germ attacks.

At the same time Vicks increases the circulation of the blood throughout the chest region, thus helping to prevent any congestion developing.

It applied in time Vicks will prevent many colds from getting a start and its use doesn't disturb the child's digestion as constant internal dosing is so apt to do.

Taxicab Driver Proves Chivalry Is Not Dead

"Don't offer me money, lady—it's so long since I have been a hero," said a taxicab driver, proving thereby that chivalry has not died.

The girl was dressed to impress a possible employer—that is, in her best. She had been job-hunting, and a sudden rainstorm left her marooned in an office building on a fifth avenue corner. Taxicabs of all colors, all of them comfortably filled, went skidding past, and for half an hour the girl watched them greedily. Finally an empty cab came along. She dashed for it and jumped in without a word of warning, says the New York Sun and Globe.

"Get up, get up, miss," said the driver, beginning to look frightened. "I've gotta take this cab around to the garage."

"I can't get up," said the girl. "You'll hafta get up," said the driver sternly. "I can't stay here all night—that cop is telling me to move on now."

"Now, man to man," said the girl, looking at him out of black-framed Irish eyes, "do you want me to get this hat wet?"

He looked at the eyes and then at the hat. It was a pink silk hat, and, like the clouds, it had a silver lining.

"No, miss, I don't," he answered. "Tell you what I can do—I'll take you as far as I'm going and get you another cab then."

Without even throwing the meter he drove off and did not swerve until they reached the taxi barn.

Machines Aid Surgery

At the recent convention of the American College of Surgeons at Chicago, Dr. Fred H. Albee of New York, an authority on reconstructive surgery, in talking about machine-driven surgical instruments, said:

"One of the best points about automatic machine-driven surgical tools is that they reduce the shock of operation, because of the speed. This may be exemplified by the fact that a man when shot with a steel-jacketed, swiftly moving bullet, often does not realize he is shot until the blood begins to flow. But when a man is shot with a slowly moving, soft-jointed bullet, he is knocked down, so violent is the shock."

"The same thing applies in operations when mallet and chisel are used. There the shock is vastly greater than when the cutting instruments work swiftly and surely, cutting the bones to a true size. Holes are cut to the right size and dovels of living bone are made to fit exactly."

Thursday Selected As Date For Next Unity Frat-Casey Club Clash; Interest Fired

Serious Has Now Become Subject of Much Discussion Throughout City.

FRAT OUT TO WIN AGAIN

The next Unity Fraternity-Casey Club game is definitely scheduled for Thursday night.

With the announcement of this date a number of fans are marking off that evening on their calendar of engagements and for another time a throng will attend a game in the High School gymnasium where the clubs are battling for supremacy in a five-game series.

To date the Casey Club has won two and needs more victories to clinch the honors. The Fraternity team, contrary to all expectations, delivered last week and took its opponents across in the third game. Still needing another victory to even matters up the Frat quintet will go into the fray more determined than ever on Thursday.

The Casey are reported to be preparing to "play at capacity" that evening. No club ever wanted to win worse than does the K. of C. organization and no other team was ever more desirous of stopping an opponent. With this great rivalry existing fans get more than their money's worth in entertainment.

Fans supporting both teams have now become thoroughly aroused. None who have seen the games have missed any following once and as a result of the Frat show of strength and subsequent victory, combined with their announced determination of winning Thursday is certain to attract.

Although it has not yet been announced a good preliminary game will precede the main attraction.

NELSON GIRLS WILL MEET HOMESTEAD AT ARMORY WEDNESDAY

The Nelson Girls have a game tomorrow night. The attraction will be the Liberty Girls of Homestead, at the Armory. The local ladies, with 17 games behind them, still have six more to go, and Homestead will be the first of the half dozen.

This game has been pending for some time and there has been so much talk about it that considerable interest is growing in the city. Every one is banking on the Nelson ladies to win.

A preliminary game between the Crescent Five, contestants for the Junior championship of the city, and the Lowrey Five, is scheduled.

Greb Retains Title By Beating Kaiser

Harry Greb, middleweight champion, last night successfully defended his title against Pay Kaiser of Cumberland, Md., in Baltimore. It was one of the most one-sided fights the Maryland city ever saw.

The champion scored a technical knockout when the referee stopped the scrap in the 13th round.

Of Interest to Fans.

A telephone call was made, as the sporting season was about completed, to the fact that "we want more of this Pittsburgh officiating" in the Casey-Frat games. The fact didn't take time to give him name. He just took long enough to emphatically deliver the message and then hang up.

It was reported Casey supporters were making odds of two to one on the game Thursday night but Frat members couldn't find any last night they said. The light of the "long grass" sent the local talkers scurrying.

High School girls want Monessen's soap. They think it will remove some of the sting of defeat handed the Yankees in the semi-finals of the W. P. I. A. League.

The New York Giants yesterday lost their fourth straight exhibition game, being defeated at Indianapolis. The score was 7-1.

The Pittsburgh Pirates also lost, Oakland, Cal., winning. The result was 4-1. Traynor again led in the batting with a triple and two singles.

Coker track candidates are lining up rapidly. Captain Paul Carlo is enthusiastic over the turnout and with proper support he will give the school a fast organization. J. E. Lorew is track coach.

Homestead and Johnstown are two high schools selected to enter the state basketball tournament at State College.

The Unity Fraternity is organizing for the biggest turnout at any basketball game yet. A large contingent will be on hand to offer moral support Thursday.

SOME SMILES

HOW IT IS DONE

"Suppose," queried the blurbist of a bit of new action, "you were facing bankruptcy. How would you tell your wife about it?"

Well, we should say, as we do about the first of every month: "Darling, I am facing bankruptcy." And she would say, in the customary patient tone of voice: "You sure I haven't been spending much money on the house?"—Spokane Spokesman-Review.

JUDGE FOR YOURSELF

Mrs. Herdit—Do you consider Mrs. Chatterbox strictly truthful in all she says?

Mrs. Seddit—Well, it does seem impossible that anyone could talk so continuously as she does while limited to the exact truth.

Great Chance.

She shows a timing instinct. A good scheme, you can bet. They'll make the most of that old gown.

What follows they will get.

Sportively Speaking.

First Guest—Are you interested in sport?

Second Guest—Yes.

First Guest—What kind?

Second Guest—Transport.

First Guest—Transport?

Second Guest—Yes, I'm the owner of an express and van company.

Precaution.

"Change just two quarts of gas," said Mr. Chuggins.

"Only two quarts?" exclaimed the man at the pump.

"Yes," his wife is learning to run the driver, and I want to make sure that if it goes away from her it'll stop pretty soon of its own accord."

Sport Notes

Christy Mathewson is generally considered to have been at the peak of his pitching power from 1908 to 1909.

The Cincinnati Reds will give a trial to Joe Aubuch, a tall southpaw pitcher, who was with the Yankees two years ago.

Takuro Harada, new tennis champion of Japan, will participate in United States this spring and may also compete in the Davis cup play as a representative of the Oriental nation.

Centre college, with an enrollment of only about 400 students, played football before more than 100,000 fans last year.

If the college needs any pupils, there are a lot of umpires in major leagues who ought to take a post-graduate course.

The Mud Hens have new owners, but it is too early to tell whether they will be able to scratch their way out of the A. A. cellar.

Judge Landis says he will root for a team in a cellar next year. Other fans are expected to do all their rooting on the bleachers.

Yankee Stadium Improved

Changes made in the playing field of the Yankee stadium, New York, have improved the view of spectators along the first and third base lines, removed dark shadows in autumn, lengthened both foul lines and eliminated a pocket where the grandstand and bleachers join the right field. The diamond has been moved outward ten feet, allowing more room for the catcher, first and third basemen.

Plays Every Game

Harry Lunde, former member of the Cleveland Indians, now with Rochester in the American association, was the only player in that organization to take part in every game in which his team participated. When in the American League Lunde was the original hard-luck guy, injuries putting him out of it every time he got a chance to show.

News From Dunbar Twp. High School

Many changes have been made at Dunbar Township High School during the past year. A reference book library is installed in the study hall, thus saving continuous running back and forth to the office. Each room is equipped with a cabinet for the books needed by the teacher. A note-book cabinet, holding 100 notebooks for the scientific students, has been installed. A chemical storage cabinet, a safe-keeping place for all chemicals, and a compartment for the Sextant staff, have been added. Sentimental copies from the first issue will be put on the walls, together with the cuts of the students, graduating.

There are two pianos, thus permitting the orchestra and the glee club to rehearse the same evening without conflict. Blueprint work is being done by the students. One student made prints for a home his father intends to build.

Rehearsals for the annual opera have been under way for some time. Sylvia, an 18th century story, written by Marie Elizabeth Inch and W. Rhy-Herbert, in two acts, will be presented this year. Seventy people will take part in the play which will be held on Friday, April 11. The opera is under the direction of Miss Mabel Wilt and H. B. Baeson.

Due to numerous complaints by the members of the alumni as to reservation of seats, the office force of the township school has divided the names of the alumni association into two groups, namely the local and distant localities.

Ten days before the day for the opera, notice of its presentation will be sent to each member of the alumni, permitting him to reserve seats. If satisfactory reservations are made the opera will be presented two days, April 10 and 11.

The stage at the high school has been improved by the installation of reflectors on the stage lights and a gradual light extinguisher.

Moving picture shows are held frequently at the high school auditorium during noon intermission. All pictures have an educational idea.

Special chapel programs are held frequently, including a series of debates, extemporaneously, on questions dealing with particular facts on the question for debate in the inter-high school contest.

The orchestra is rendering much assistance to the basketball teams by playing during intermissions and between halves, "putting a lot of pep" into the students.

"CAP" STUBBLE

By EDWINA

"The brokerage firm which your father founded is, temporarily, without a head. You have had some experience in your father's office, and as his solicitors for many years, we take the liberty of suggesting that you should immediately assume control of the business. A faithful staff are at present continuing it to the best of their ability, but you will understand that a permanent organization must be effected at as early a date as may be possible."

"Inability to locate you until after somewhat exhaustive inquiries had been made explains the failure to notify you by wire in time to permit of your attending the funeral of your father and brother, which took place in this city on the eighth instant, and was marked by many evidences of respect."

"We beg to tender our very sincere sympathy, and to urge upon you that you so arrange your affairs as to enable you to assume the responsibilities which have, in a sense, been forced upon you, at a very early date. In the meantime we assure you of our earnest attention to your interests."

"Yours sincerely,
"BARNETT, JONES, BARRETT, DEACON & BARRETT."

"Well, I guess it means you've struck oil, and you lost a good fellow," said Landson, as he returned the letter. "I'm sorry about your loss, Grant, and glad to hear of your good luck. If I may put it that way, what do you reckon she's worth?" he asked, after waiting as long as his patience would permit.

"Oh, I don't know. Possibly six or eight millions by this time."

"Six or eight millions! Jehoshaphat! What will you do with it?"

"Look after it, Mr. Landson, you know that I have never worried about money. If I had I wouldn't be here. I don't care for the money, but any son-of-a-gun who takes it from me is a better man than I am, and I'll sit up nights at both ends of the day to beat him at his own game. Now, just as soon as you can line up some one to take charge I'll have to beat it."

Grant put his affairs in order as quickly as possible, and started for the East with a trunkful of clothes. But even before he started one thought had risen up to haunt him. He wished it down, but it would insist. It was that had happened a year ago.

Grant reached his old home city late at night, and after a quiet elgar and a stroll through some of the half-forgotten streets he put up at one of the best hotels. He was deferentially shown to a room about as large as the whole Landson house; soft lights were burning under pink shades; his feet fell noiselessly on the thick carpets. He placed a chair by a window where he could watch the myriad lights of the city, and tried to appreciate the new sphere in which he found himself. It would be a very different game from riding the ranges or roping steers, but it would be a game, nevertheless; a game in which he would have to stand on his own resources even more than in these brave days in the foothills. He relished the notion of the game even while he was indifferent to the prize. He had no clear idea what his even-tually should do with his wealth; that was something to think about very carefully in the days and years to come. In the meantime his job was to handle a big business in the way it should be handled.

He turned the water into his bath; there was a smell about the towels, the linen, the soap, that was very grateful to his nostrils.

In the morning he passed by the office of Grant & Son. He did not turn in, but pursued his way to a door where a great brass plate announced the law firm of Barnett, Jones, Barrett, Deacon & Barrett. He smiled at this elaboration of names; it represented three generations of the Barrett family and two sons-in-law. Grant found himself speculating over a name for the Landson ranch; it might have been Landson, Grant, Landson, Murphy, Skinner & A. In his interview it was arranged that Mr. Jones, second partner of the firm of legal lights, should take Grant's affairs under his particular care until the young Westerner felt safe in his new saddle. When Grant, accompanied by Jones, finally appeared at the office of his father's firm he was received with a deference amounting almost to obsequiousness. Murdoch, the chief clerk and manager of the business in all but title, who had known him in the old days when he had been "Mr. Young," bowed him into the private office which had for so many years been the secret recess of the senior Grant. Only his men or trusted employees were in the habit of passing those silent green doors.

"Well, Mr. Grant, old boy, how goes it?" Grant had said when they met, taking his hand in a husky grip.

"Not so bad, sir; not so bad, considering the shock of the accident, sir. And we are all so glad to see you—see who knew you before, sir."

"Listen, Mr. Grant," said Grant. "What's the idea of all this?"

"Why," said the somewhat abashed official, "you know you are now the head of the firm, sir."

"Quite so. Because a chauffeur neglected to look over his shoulder I am converted from a cow puncher to a sir. Well, so easy on it. If a man has native dignity in him he doesn't need it piled on from outside."

"Very true, sir. I hope you will be comfortable here. Some memorable matters have been transacted within these walls, sir. Let me take your hat and cane."

"Cane? What cane?"

"Your stick, sir; didn't you have a stick?"

"What for? Have you rattlers here? Oh, I see—more dignity. No, I don't carry a stick. Perhaps when I'm old—"

"You'll have to try and accommodate yourself to our manners," said Jones, when Murdoch had left the room. "They may seem unnecessary, or even absurd, but they are sanctioned by custom, and you know, distinction is built on custom. The poet speaks of a freedom which 'slowly broadens down from precedent to precedent.' Precedent is custom. Never defy custom, or you will find her your master. Honor her and she will be your slave. Now I think I shall leave, while you try and attune yourself to the atmosphere of these surroundings."

So this was the room which had been the inner shrine of the firm of Grant & Son. The quarters were new since he had left the East; the furnishings revealed that large simplicity which is elegance and wealth. A painting of the elder Grant hung from the wall; Dennison stood before it, looking into the sad, capable, gray eyes. What had life brought to his father that was worth the price those eyes reflected? Dennison found his own eyes moistening with memories now strangely poignant.

"Environment," the young man murmured, as he turned from the portrait, "environment, master of everything! And you—"

A photograph of Roy stood on the mantelpiece, and beside it, in a little silver frame, was one of his mother. . . . Grant pulled himself together and fell to an examination of the papers in his father's desk.

Grant's first concern was to get a grasp of the business affairs which had so unexpectedly come under his direction. To accomplish this he continued the practice of the Landson ranch; he was up every morning at five, and had done a day's work before the members of his staff began to assemble. For advice he turned to Jones and Murdoch, and the management of routine affairs he left entirely in the hands of the latter. He had soon convinced himself that the camaraderie of the ranch would not work in a staff of this kind, so while he was formulating plans of his own he left the administration to Murdoch. He found this absence of companionship the most unpleasant feature of his position; it seemed that his wealth had elevated him out of the human family. He wavered between amusement and annoyance over the deference that was paid him. Some of the staff were openly terrified at his approach.

Not so Miss Bruce. Miss Bruce had tapped on the door and entered with the words, "I was your father's stenographer. He left practically all his personal correspondence to me. I worked at this desk in the corner, and had a private office through the door there into which I slipped when my absence was preferred."

She had crossed the room, and, instead of standing respectfully before Grant's desk, had come around the end of it. Grant looked up with some surprise, and noted that her features were not without comprehending qualities.

"How do you think you're going to like your job?" she asked.

Grant swung around quickly in his chair. No one in the staff had spoken to him like that; Murdoch himself would not have dared address him in so familiar a manner. He decided to take a firm position.

"Were you in the habit of speaking to my father like that?"

"Your father was a man well on in years, Mr. Grant. Every man according to his age."

Grant looked at her keenly. Whatever her words, he had to admit that her tone was not impertinent.

"You appear to be a very advanced young woman," he remarked. "I am a little surprised—I had hardly thought my father would select young women of your type as his confidential secretaries."

Connie Mack Is Praised as Liberal With Minors

They used to accuse Connie Mack of being "too money wise" when he sold off his stars at good prices and tried to build the Athletics anew with a lot of college players and others who cost him little or nothing. But Connie has shown them now that it was not because of any "tightness" of the purse that he adopted the policy he did. It was his belief he could build as he planned and get better results than by going into the market and buying. But his faith in collegians and sandlotters was shattered and he adopted the old policy of less imaginative magnates and decided to go out and buy.

Having reached this decision, there has been no more liberal purchaser of playing talent in baseball than Connie.

He was the big plunger at the Chicago market, spending well over $100,000, with a number of players thrown in to boot. Talented he figures will put his A's in the American league pennant race next season.

Follow magnates not only praised Mack's liberality in dealings with the minors, but also expressed admiration for his judgment in picking talent.

French Quite Jubilant About Team of Runners

Paris sports writers are jubilant over the fact that eight French runners ran 800 meters in less than two minutes during the track season.

They also point to the fact that while Watson and Holbrook of the United States ran 880 yards, which amounts to 804 meters plus, in 1:37.

two of the French runners did not travel at their maximum speed and that in spite of the figures the world may receive a surprise at the Olympic games. The runners who made the five best times are Ferry and Bagin of Paris, Guibaud of Reims, Bouillon of Saint-Etienne and Barnaud of Avignon. Guibaud had the best time of all the runners, for he covered the distance in 1:57 2/10. This was done in Pershing stadium in June. Month, regarded by sports writers as France's premier runner for the games, did 1:58 2/10 and 1:58 5/10, with plenty in reserve each time.

Heavyweight boxing champions, since John J. Sullivan held the title, have been Corbett, Fitzsimmons, Jeffries, Burns, Johnson, Willard and Dempsey.

Stop! Look! Listen! A story here we tell,
He tried to cross the railroad track and didn't hear the bell.
But there's still a happy ending, he's getting well and, too,
He was protected with insurance, and by the way—are You?
